Grand Valley State University ScholarWorks@GVSU

Features

Hauenstein Center for Presidential Studies

9-4-2008

Mastering the Medium

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.gvsu.edu/features

Recommended Citation

"Mastering the Medium" (2008). Features. Paper 135. http://scholarworks.gvsu.edu/features/135

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Hauenstein Center for Presidential Studies at ScholarWorks@GVSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Features by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@GVSU. For more information, please contact scholarworks@gvsu.edu.

Mastering the Medium

The Importance of Newpapers, Radio, Television, and the Internet to Presidents

September 4, 2008: Fifty-seven years ago today, President Harry Truman delivered a speech in San Francisco about ending the U.S's post-World War II occupation of Japan. The speech -- watched on television by Americans from coast to coast -- was the first ever transcontinental television broadcast. Later presidents would master the medium of television, and in this video historian H. W. Brands talks about the historic importance of presidential mastery of mediums.