LANGUAGE ARTS JOURNAL OF MICHIGAN

THE SCHOLARLY JOURNAL OF THE
MICHIGAN COUNCIL OF TEACHERS OF ENGLISH

Fall/Winter 2004: Reading Matters

This issue is focused around issues of reading and literature. Although we will consider any articles about the teaching of literature and reading in the classroom, we particularly encourage essays and articles that describe any of the following

- Innovative approaches to teaching literature
- Reading programs, projects, and ideas
- Literary programs that expand or define the concepts of the literary canon
- Responses to prescriptive and legislated approaches to literature
- School events and projects that celebrate literature
- Reading in the content areas and cross curricular/cross-grade level reading projects

Submission Date: August 1, 2004

Spring/Summer 2005: Writing Matters

This issue focuses on writing and communication. We encourage any articles that situate writing as a centerpiece of the classroom. We particularly encourage articles that display

- Innovative approaches to audience and purpose
- Projects or classroom environments that encourage writing
- Ways to teach students about issues of audience, purpose, and context and other higher-order concerns in writing
- Innovative approaches to standards and testing in written communication
- Discussions that expand writing into new realms, audiences, or genres

Submission Date: January 15, 2005
