Recipe for Moral Confusion

"A great recipe for a generation of young men."

Ingredients

Makes one serving; but it will last a lifetime.

1 Young Man

2 cups Family Values

1 ½ Cups Military Culture and Training

½ Cup Social Expectations

¼ Cup Duty

2 Tbsp. Fear (Confusion can also be substitute in this recipe)

1 Dash of Esprit de Corps

Prep Time: 24 Years   Cook Time: Seconds   Ready in: Never

Directions

1. Preheat an unfamiliar desert wasteland to 130 degrees F (54 degrees C) until ready to cook. Grease a large culture with violence and war.
2. Combine all of the ingredient into the young man just out of high school and shake the hell out of him. Then place the combined ingredients into the greased culture; mix him up some more just for good measure.
3. Place the young man in the desert to bake. Bake with a gun. Let that sucker bake even when you're not sure if baking is the right choice. (Sometimes it's better to bake than be baked.)
4. Pull the young man out of the desert and feed it to the family right away. It will be hot; and they may not know how to handle it. (Don't worry; it won't know how to handle it.) You will know it is done when it has a hard exterior and a mixed up center. It may leave a bad taste in your mouth, but over time, hopefully, it will become easier to digest.
