Greater Grand Rapids Community Survey

Community Survey Chartbook 2011

About the Community Research Institute

The Community Research Institute of the Johnson Center for Philanthropy (CRI) provides innovative applied research to West Michigan communities. It empowers communities with quality research and data, it generates information that will improve their decision-making process, it forecasts trends for effective problem solving, and it measures results and reports outcomes of investments in community change.

CRI gathers, analyzes, interprets and shares national and local data through partnerships with nonprofit and neighborhood groups, and assists local and regional nonprofit leaders with decision making, grant writing, and program evaluation. This is research that makes a difference through a distinctly valuable blend of university rigor and community relevance.

About this Project

The annual Greater Grand Rapids Community Survey is a powerful tool for understanding the needs of Kent County residents. The driving philosophy behind the questionnaire is that citizen well-being can be measured by the extent to which their basic needs are met. The core questions of the survey relate to areas such as education, employment, housing and health. All core questions are asked on an annual basis. This design yields measurements for many different time periods and records patterns of change for longitudinal analysis.

It is our hope that when the survey results are provided to the community, local human service providers will use the results to make informed decisions that will strengthen community. Specific ways survey results can be used by local agencies include:

- Monitor trends and identify emerging community problems,
- Characterize disparities across sub populations/communities,
- Establish priorities and plan programs,
- Evaluate progress in meeting community goals,
- Disseminate information to engage community and policymakers, and
- Support grant applications and other funding opportunities.

If you have questions about the Greater Grand Rapids Community Survey, please call the Johnson Center at 616-331-7585 and ask to speak to a researcher. You may also contact a member of the Community Research Institute staff through our website at cridata.org.

Methodology

The 2011 Greater Grand Rapids Community Survey is designed to assess citizen opinions, perceptions and behaviors relating to civic engagement, basic needs, health, and discrimination in the Greater Grand Rapids Area (Kent County).

Sampling/Population

Respondents were telephoned in October 2011 by Precision Research (Phoenix, AZ) and asked to participate in the survey. Time to complete the survey was estimated at 16 minutes. No identifying information was recorded other than demographic information.

This project includes surveys of 500 adults, aged 18 and up. The calls were staggered to provide week day and week end sample representation. In addition, calls were made during different times of the day so that a proper representation was collected for when respondents are at home.

Calls were made using standard Random Digit Dialing (RDD) procedures until the project's quota was met (500 households). Over-samples were selected for African-Americans and Hispanics resulting in 100 responses from each group. Respondents had the option of taking the survey in Spanish. Data in this report has been weighted by race, gender and age so that results can be more accurately generalized to Kent County's population.

Margin of Error

The margin of error for the overall sample is $\pm 4\%$. Subgroup responses will have a larger margin of error, depending on the size of the group.
