Proposal Writing Workshop To be Offered

Robert Toft, director of federal relations, will be on campus to offer a one-day proposal writing workshop for faculty and staff on Tuesday, June 18. The six-hour program will feature details of the elements of a good proposal and the opportunity for participants to develop their own proposal writing skills.

Toft will be available June 19, 20, and 21 to meet with workshop participants who wish to expand individual proposal development. He will also be available to speak with faculty and staff about grant ideas.

Anyone interested in the workshop should contact Marie Noe, ext. 3224, to sign up.

Faculty Sketches

Faite R-P Mack, professor of education, has received notice that his proposal, entitled "The Status of Special Education for Pre-schoolers and Infants: Survey of the States and Territories," has been accepted for presentation at the National Early Childhood Conference on Children with Special Needs to be held in Denver, Colorado, in October.

Mack has also been invited to submit an article to be published in a special edition of Early Child Development and Care, an international journal published in England. The subject of the special edition will be "Early Childhood Trends for the 1990's in America." Mack has been invited to contribute a chapter for a monograph on "Early Childhood Education for Large Urban Areas" to be published by Howard University in Washington, D.C. He will be writing on early childhood special education.

Laura Gardner Salazar, associate professor of theatre in the School of Communications, served as an adjudicator for the Illinois Children's Theatre Festival at Northwestern University on May 4 and 5.

Gilder to Speak at Foundation Luncheon

Noted author and economist George Gilder will be the guest speaker at the Grand Valley College Foundation Spring Luncheon to be held on Wednesday, June 19, at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel.

Gilder, author of The Spirit of Enterprise and Wealth and Poverty, will speak on "The Entrepreneurial Spirit." He maintains that the true source of America's wealth is found in creativity, technological adventure, and the motivation to move into new territory in economic enterprise.

The Grand Valley College Foundation Spring Luncheon is a biennial membership event for those who contribute $25 or more annually to the college's endowment fund.

Convention Bureau Seeks Assistance

The Greater Grand Rapids Convention Bureau has contacted the college, encouraging faculty and staff who belong to professional organizations to invite those groups to hold meetings in the Greater Grand Rapids area.

Convention Bureau Executive Director Bill DeHaan says, "We're looking for more hometown heroes--people who invite and persuade their organization to hold a meeting in Grand Rapids. Hometown hero efforts bring new dollars to our area via convention attendee expenditures, and we offer a wide variety of free assistance and free materials to help hometown heroes attract their organizations to Grand Rapids." Anyone interested in this effort is invited to contact DeHaan at the convention bureau, 459-8287.
