Our Committee

Charged by the Head of Instructional Services with the following:

1. Structure/wording
2. Analyze initial data
3. Summarize

Initial launch

- Data collected using LibAnalytics software
 - 9/6/2013 - 10/1/2013
 - 680 forms
- Numerical data was analyzed using basic statistics and Excel PivotTables.
- Qualitative data was coded by the committee for statistical analysis.

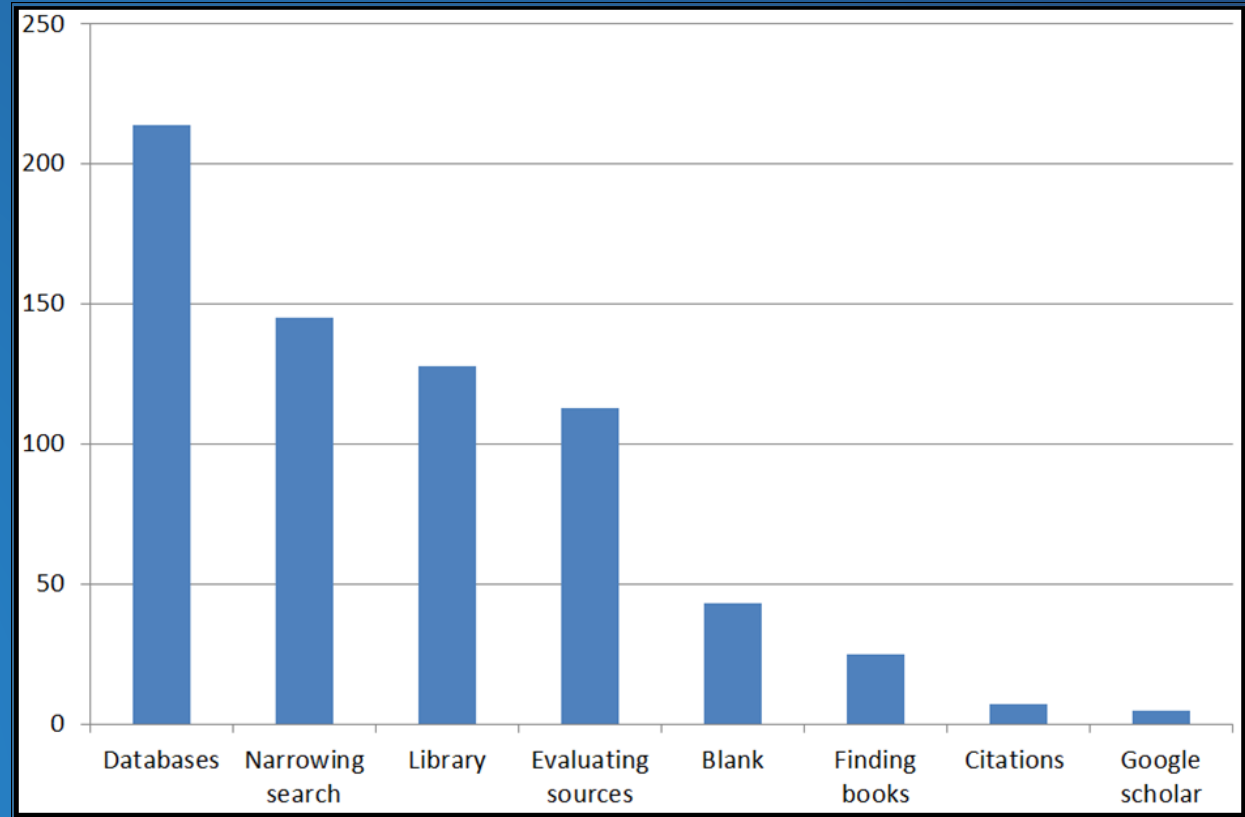

Our Numbers

- 63% said this was their first librarian class visit.
- 88% reported the session as “helpful.”
- Confidence levels rose with the helpfulness rating.
- “What would you like to learn more about?” was often left blank.
 - 54% responded and the most frequent answer (7%) was m.socrative.com
- Nearly 80% left “Any general questions or comments?” blank.
 - 18% positive, 3% constructive, < 1% negative

What did we learn about the Evaluation form?

- Ask the right questions.
- Keep the data and use it, question it.
- Give students an open ended question.
- Finesse the use. The same tool is not for everyone.

What did the Committee learn?

- Emphasize that use of evaluation form is to measure student perceptions.
- Reporting out
 - Required/Recommended
 - Anonymous
 - Fear of evaluation
- “Buy in” by librarians has been successful
 - Over 2700 uses after our initial study in 2013
- Point and click vs Conceptual (threshold concepts)

Recommendations

- Create a mobile-friendly form
- Create a separate faculty feedback form about library instruction
- Create various forms to choose from depending on class
 - Student learning vs. perceptions

Discussion Thoughts

- What are your take-aways from the data you're collecting?
- Are you using data-driven decision making?
- How do you focus on student perception and/or student learning?
- Do you or your colleagues have concerns about implementing eval forms?
