WOMEN'S HEART HEALTH DIRECTORY

A GUIDE TO SERVICES AND RESOURCES IN KENT COUNTY

Fall 2007

About this Directory

Whether an individual is at risk for heart disease or simply wants to be proactive to prevent problems from occurring later in life, there are many services and resources in our community that can be utilized. There is no doubt that Kent County residents have a wide variety of options available to them including services related to prevention, diagnosis, and advanced care.

This guide was designed to assist individuals and families in accessing the services available in our community. As you look through the pages of this directory, you will see that we have organized the services and resources into five categories and provided a brief description for each program. Additionally, we have used two symbols to highlight programs that serve women () and older adults ().

To create this directory, we drew upon the experience and knowledge of professionals in our community. Please note that we have not evaluated the resources listed in this guide. Inclusion does not imply our endorsement nor does absence imply our disapproval. If you would like to add a service or edit a listing, please contact Korrie Ottenwess at 331-7585 or ottenwko@gvsu.edu.

This report was written by the Community Research Institute (CRI) at Grand Valley State University. CRI provides innovative applied research to West Michigan communities. CRI gathers, analyzes, interprets and shares national and local data through partnerships with nonprofit and neighborhood groups, and assists local and regional nonprofit leaders with decision making, grant writing, and program evaluation. This research makes a difference through a distinctly valuable blend of university rigor and community relevance.
