Grand Valley State University ScholarWorks@GVSU

Presidential Speeches

University Archives

1985

25th Anniversary Statement, delivered at GVSC in 1985

Arend D. Lubbers Grand Valley State University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.gvsu.edu/presidential_speeches

Part of the Archival Science Commons, Education Commons, and the History Commons

ScholarWorks Citation

Lubbers, Arend D., "25th Anniversary Statement, delivered at GVSC in 1985" (1985). Presidential Speeches. 105. https://scholarworks.gvsu.edu/presidential_speeches/105

This Speech is brought to you for free and open access by the University Archives at ScholarWorks@GVSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Presidential Speeches by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@GVSU. For more information, please contact scholarworks@gvsu.edu.

STATEMENT FROM PRESIDENT LUBBERS REGARDING 25th ANNIVERSARY

Grand Valley State College has grown significantly since it was chartered 25 years ago by the Michigan State Legislature. In September, 1963 the doors were opened to a freshman class of 226 students, and today our enrollment is more than 7,000. We think our position in West Michigan is vital to this area of the state and that we have responded to the educational needs of our society. I look forward to continued growth and a bright future for our college. I think the Downtown Center will definitely help meet the educational needs of our older adult students, and therefore will be important in our future growth. I have been and am proud to be a part of this college community, and indeed our first 25 years are a cause for celebration. of life for Frank Valley state college

We who live and work in The provinces follow with quat interest the careen of those who cut a swath through the life of the nation, William Simon is one of those whom we have a public official and a private entre peneur, as I reflected upon the import of m. Sumon on the national political and financial scene I was remuded of the remark made by the French revolute any leader wanton it in an address to the assembly when France was beset by enemies from all sides " In order to conquer them, gentlemen, de l'audace eniore de l'audace et toujours, de l'audace - audacity, more audacity and always audacity. In the sense that boldness is synonomous with andonty Boldness is synonomous with andarity and in that sense Mr. Simon appears to act when confronted with greet poblems and opportunities. He certainly is a man of action. The squinging riblation to a livesble rate dung as Presidency to rumors of his participation in the letest yestemat surrounding The CBS network attest to That fort. But he is more than that. He is a political economist, a ctrinker and philosopher, and his writings during the past decade reveal a mind of penetrating thought and a proon of strong commitment. The last time we havored Bill Seedman along with Phil Buchan and Jim Zemberge inducting them as the first members of The Grand Valley Hall of Fame at the amichment Fund Aliman in 1976 William Suman delivere the address, Three is no doubt that Bill Simon will go to great lengths for his friend Bill seidman. Im currous to know what Bill budman has done for your lately. de we recognige Bill Suidman we are honored to have a friend of the, a distinguished american, and a man of bulhance and character address us This morning, the William Entry Amnon.

When I was considering my remarks for today, my thoughts flitted off to a passage from Shakespeare's Richard the II - a most incongruous thing to do when one will face an audience of engineers. Perhaps that is a natural pervisity for an historian who has come to respect the fact that engineers are in greater demand than historians and are essential to design and feed the economic engines of wealth that allow historians to practice their discipline and students to study Shakespeare. The quotation has no relationship to the engineering program that we're presenting today, nor any relationship to science and technology at all. I will read it to you and explain:

"This royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle, this earth of majesty, the seat of Mars, this other Eden, demi-paradise, this fortress built by nature for herself against infection in the hand of war, this happy breed of men, this little world, this precious stone set in the silver sea, which serves it in the office of a wall or as a moat defensive to a house against the envy of less happier lands, this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England."