Call for Manuscripts

Winter 2004: Writing across the disciplines.

(Manuscripts must be received by September 1, 2003. Electronic submissions are encouraged.)

Writing is a content and also a tool. Instruction in writing helps children work in and around subject matter because it helps them discover what they know and what they want to know.

- * How have you integrated writing instruction into the content areas?
- * How have your students benefited from this practice?
- * What tips do you have for your colleagues?
- * Are you concerned about the practice of assessing content-area knowledge through writing?
- * Have you integrated instructional practices from writing into the design, execution, or assessment of content?

We are especially interested in pieces about the research and practice of writing about math, social studies, or science.

- Manuscripts should not exceed 2,500-3,000 words.
- Author's name, mailing address, telephone number, FAX number, e-mail address, and professional affiliation should be on a separate cover page. The author's name should not appear in the manuscript.
- Three members of the editorial review board will review all manuscripts.
- Manuscripts must be received by September 1, 2003. Decisions will be reached within four months for this issue.
- If a manuscript is accepted for publication, its author must provide a computer disk copy of the manuscript, preferably in MS Word.
- Charts, graphs, drawings, and high quality photographs pertaining to article topics will be appreciated. Photographs from a digital camera can be submitted digitally.
- Send either: a) an electronic e-mail attachment; or b) six copies of the manuscript, a disk with your submission, and two self-addressed stamped envelopes to:
