EDITOR'S NOTE

This is my last issue as the editor of the Language Arts Journal of Michigan. Due to other responsibilities, I am unable to begin a new term as journal editor. Nevertheless it has been a privilege to be the first editor of the first journal published by the Michigan Council of Teachers of English.

The success of the journal, however, belongs to the contributors of Volume One and Two (1985-86), to the members of the review board (especially Bob Root, Jill Van Antwerp, and Linda Dinan), to the executive board members of MCTE (notably Sheila Fitzgerald and Ronald Kar), and to the members of MCTE. I appreciate the professional advice and support from John Maxwell, Executive Director of the National Council of Teachers of English, and to Ron Marostia, NCTE's Director for Affiliate Services. I am grateful to Dean William Volz of the School of Business Administration and to Edward Riordan, Chair of the Department of Marketing, both of Wayne State University, for having Wayne provide financial and secretarial support to publish LAJM. To the Wizards of Words in East Lansing, I am indebted to their professional service.

I leave the editorship of LAJM confident that the journal will continue its mission with its new editor, to whom I wish the best.

John Beard
