About the Cover

Built in 1899, this one-room schoolhouse served the population of South Manitou Island for nearly half a century. Myrtle Kelderman, who taught at the school for three years during the 1930s, remembers it as “a wonderful place to teach, with nature right at your doorstep—the many beautiful trees, the wild flowers, the farmland, all surrounded by the beauty of Lake Michigan.”

"This is a gem of a book. It will stay on teachers' shelves long after they have emerged through their teacher preparation programs and first years of teaching as an invaluable resource for thinking about their lives as teachers, their teaching, and the students and issues that confront them."

Melanie Sperling,
University of California

EARLY CAREER ENGLISH TEACHERS IN ACTION

Learning from Experience, Developing Expertise

Edited by Robert Rozema and Lindsay Ellis

"This collection of beginning teacher stories provides authentic narrative voices that share the positive, neutral, and negative realities of teaching. The vicarious experience will help pre-service teachers envision their roles and the many choices they will make as teachers ..."
