

Functionality in Beta

The upcoming releases of the software will include additional functionality. One feature in beta testing is the user name pronunciation and preferred pronoun. While campus information systems often include a preferred name, which can be set by the end user, the Open Photo Roster will include the pronunciation and preferred pronoun. These options will be set by the end user and displayed to the course instructor. This means that a preferred name will have a phonetic description and a preferred pronoun will be communicated in the printout or electronic version of the course roster.
